Stewart, mail contractor, and Miss Katie Settle, both of Fort Saskatchewan. Rev. G. C. d'Eauum, B.A., tied the knot. Miss Mary Buchanan acted as bridesmaid, and Mr. Campbell assisted the groom. The bride was given away by her father. The happy couple left the same evening for Edmonton, where they took the train for a trip through the mountains. MATHERS' ART GALLERY

Ten years ago C. W. Mathers arrived in Edmonton from Ontario and opened a photograph gallery twelve by eighteen feet. Today he has a large building of ten rooms, entirely devoted to the operations connected with his business. The establishment is one of the largest in Canada, certainly nothing west of the Great Lakes can compare with it. A large waiting room occupies the lower and front portion of the building. It is nicely fitted up with chairs and tables. On one large table is placed a number of portfolios of views. The views of the far north, which occupy several volumes, are the finest and perhaps the only complete set of views of the great waterway to the north. Two years ago Mr. Mathers spent a whole summer in the north, travelling overland and by rail from Edmonton up the great Mackenzie waterway on and over hundreds and hundreds of miles of country, up to the Arctic Ocean. The views he collected on this trip and which he has on exhibition and for sale are intensely interesting and instructive. Mr. Mathers secured a photo of the far famed midnight sun and other views equally worthy of mention. A special photo is one of a dog train, taken while the dogs were running at full speed, in the one thousandth part of a second. It clearly shows the different positions of the dogs and is so accurate that the claws on the dogs' feet may be distinctly seen. Mr. Mathers has souvenir albums of twenty-eight of the choicest views of the north, compiled in photographic form. They show the many different outfits as they started for their long overland journey for the gold fields. One of the most peculiar was a cart-like conveyance with barrels stowed with provisions as wheels. Needless to say the hope soon broke and the cart fell in pieces. Other portfolios show all the local scenery, including the historical points in Edmonton and vicinity. Mr. Mathers' latest venture has been the purchase at a big price of the Rocky Mountain views of Boone and May, photographers in Calgary in the early days. They include the most accurate and elaborate views of Rocky Mountain scenery and scenes among the primitive Indians in the mountains and foothills. The scenes are of great historical as well as artistic merit. These have not yet been put in portfolio form but the work is well under way. These elaborate and extensive views, which are daily being added to, have all been compiled during Mr. Mathers' residence in Edmonton. Photographs, portraits, and views of every description, adorn the walls of the waiting room and the show window is suitably fitted up.

The operating room, which is on second floor, is eighteen feet by thirty feet and is one of the best equipped in the Territories. All the modern appliances, including accessories and backgrounds are used. Two new instruments, a portrait and a view camera, have been recently purchased at a cost of $250 each. Another camera is used for making enlargements and lantern slides. The most interesting of all the camera is the one used for taking moving pictures. In connection with this there is a complete projecting machine outfit with lime light and gas tanking attachments. Mr. Mathers has not yet had much time to do a great deal of this kind of work, but he is planning another trip to the far north where he will secure moving pictures of the great scenic attractions of the great northern land. Another camera recently purchased, is used for taking stereoscopic views.

FRIDAY, JUNE 5TH, 1903.

BRITISH COLUMBIA AFFAIRS.

Another page has been turned in the political history of British Columbia. In that land of short-lived governments, politics are not the purest. The people have constantly turned their backs on the party system of representation and what has been the result? In two years British Columbia has had four premiers. The Turner government having been dismissed by Lieutenant Governor Melvin Joe Martin was called on to form a government. Martin chose his cabinet ministers and went to the country. After the election he found himself with five supporters, several of his cabinet ministers having been badly defeated. Nothing was left for him to do but resign. In doing so he advised the Lieutenant Governor to call on Duncanson to form a government. Duncanson, with Martin's help, held the reins of office just long enough to attend the coronation as premier of British Columbia. On his return to Canada he was forced to resign and Col. Prior was called on to form a government. By a coalition with Joe Martin, who seems to have held the balance of power, this government dragged along in a feeble way. Shortly after the opening of this spring's session, two of Prior's cabinet ministers were defeated in Victoria West and Yale. The government continued in this crippled condition until certain alarming reports of wholesale scandal began to circulate. Investigation followed and reports from government headquarters announced the dismissal of Webb and Elbert, two of the cabinet ministers. This rang the death knell of the Prior government, and now Lieutenant Governor Joly has called on Mr. McBride to form a ministry. The extreme humor of the latest move in this political panorama is that the Lieutenant Governor gives as his main reason for retiring Col. Prior, that the connection of the B. G. Prior company, of which Col. Prior is president, with the obtaining of a certain bridge cable contract, is so questionable that he had no other alternative. It is generally understood that Mr. McBride will drop party politics and form a Conservative ministry. Already Liberals who supported him in defeating Col. Prior are regretting that they have thus merely assisted one Conservative to climb to power over another. The government now stands adjourned and it is confidently expected that, on going to the country, which it will probably do in September, it will in turn be defeated. This disgraceful and ridiculous state of affairs will likely continue until the government is run on an absolute party line.

IMPORTANT RESOLUTIONS.

The following resolutions were passed by the Teachers' Association of Central Alberta at the convention held recently at Banff:

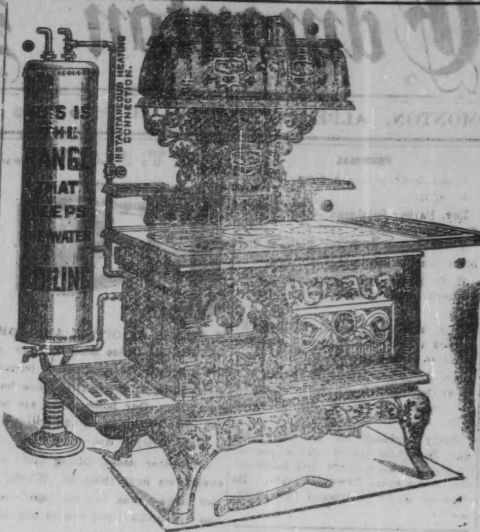

1. That we urge the council of public instruction to place on the program of studies a definite course in civics.
2. That we urge that a teacher in active service be placed on the advisory board of the council of public instruction.
3. That we urge that the trustees of city, town and village schools have the option of raising the school age from 5 to 7 years.
4. Resolved that the department of education should give one full year's notice of any change in prescribed text books to principals of schools and secretaries of school boards.
5. That principals make notice public of the issue on receipt thereof.

Ames & Co. Suspend Payment.
New York, June 3.—A. E. Ames & Co., Toronto, have announced suspension. This probably accounts for the recent selling of Canadian Pacific and other Canadian stocks. Ames & Co. were rated at $15,000,000, and Mr.

Ames was a director in Twin City. Commenting on the suspension one New York house says: "People who fall usually clear up before they announce it. If there are not more to follow the market is probably near the bottom."

Toronto, June 2. A. E. Ames & Company, private bankers and brokers, have suspended, but they have not yet hung out the suspended payment sign, saying, owing to the continued drop in stocks held by them, they wish to examine their standing. They are generally credited with large holdings of Dominion Steel common, purchased at over 70, now selling at 15, and of Sloss, Stebbins and other industrial stocks, purchased on their advice by clients, who have not been able to carry them.

The members of the firm are: A. E. Ames, H. R. Tudhope, E. G. Fraser, and A. W. Wallace. The last named, it is reported, may have withdrawn from the firm recently. Mr. Ames was president of the board of trade last year and is a son-in-law of Geo. Cox. Ames & company had been in a precarious position, it had been rumored, for some time, and these rumors have led to the withdrawal of large deposits from the firm. Twin City, which advanced to 72, and is now selling at 92, was another favorite holding of Ames' clients. It is impossible to estimate the amounts involved but reports say Tudhope has lost $125,000, Wallace $450,000 and Ames over a million.

CALGARY LABOR TROUBLE

The carpenters' union has taken a hand in the country's strike, and will refuse to work on the bridge, lumber, and other construction work.

The members of the different mills and lumber yards, as well as the firemen and contractors will be considered as non-union men and lumber hauled by them will not be accepted. This action was decided upon at a meeting of the carpenters held last night. The carpenters were almost unanimous in taking this action.

This morning five more teamsters joined the ranks of the strikers, so that now there are 27 men out.

The following concerns have come to terms with the union:

Western Carriage Company,
Geo. Stagg.

After a transfer company,
Northern Transfer Company.

500 employees were invited to confer with the executive committee of the union this morning, but only W. E. Cushing accepted. He spent over an hour talking the matter over with the men, but after he had left, the union officials stated that no settlement had been effected.

The officers of the union state that the members have been instructed to be very careful and not say anything which could be in any way used against them and that it is their desire to avoid all trouble.

The result of the carpenters taking a hand in the strike makes the situation more complicated than ever. On one side it is claimed that they will force the lumbermen to take more vigorous action and force the strikers to resume work.

The Rush to Canada

The following from a leading commercial paper of the United States, the New York Pioneer, is most flattering to Canada:

The rush to Canada is not a temporary craze. It will continue because the farmer finds there some of the best wheat lands in the world, and as we are at war with the western United States, there will be no cessation until the free territory is exhausted.

The future of Canada is regarded as unpromising, has suddenly assumed a brighter phase. Those who express doubt as to the permanency of the agricultural migration because of the different forms of government do not grasp the situation. The extent of the present flow of United States population to the Dominion will be checked only by isothermal and not political or boundary lines.

Dangers of Hiving

The following article is an extract from a letter written to the Toronto Globe by one of that paper's special correspondents now touring the West. Some thing in the life of the north-west, where the first difficulties of its settlement are overcome, when its vast areas are eyed partially peopled, and its railways will have begun to provide for its moving the real problem will arise. To weld together the diverse nationalities, to make one people of many communities, will be the task of the future. To that time the communal system, which on a greater or less scale characterizes almost all of its western portions, will disappear, and the barriers of custom, language and racial habits, which now divide the colonies, English, German, Scandinavian, Magdalenic, American, and repatriated Canadian, will be broken down. Trade intercourse between the colonies will play a great part in the process of assimilation which is to take place, but the opportunities which have been allowed the settlements of people of each race to live within themselves, free from intrusion by those of other nationalities, will have results that will be hard to estimate.

Thanking them in the West, we believe that the greatest good to the country can come from the living together of the more enlightened settlers upon whom the hopes for the development of a high ideal of citizenship depend. And so it is that the most encouraging aspect of this season's tide of immigration is the spread of the English and American settlers over the whole land and their contact with the people of every race who inhabit it. The hundreds who have left the Barr colony may in the end accomplish more for the country than the thousands who have remained with it. In the days of the first conquest of virgin prairie there is much to recommend the method of "village farming," for by it is overcome the impracticable loneliness of the families, and particularly the women, of the pioneer settlers. Neighbors may have the opportunities not only of aiding each other, but of enjoying the social life from which the farmer on an isolated quarter or half section is debarred. With a fairly settled country intersected with good roads and perhaps a railway, the need for such settlements is gone, and their disadvantages become apparent.

REGARDING FENCES

Tribune.

A farmer up in Alberta asks me as to the law regarding fences. Assume that a man puts up a fence on his homestead and by and by another man comes alongside and gets the benefit of that early bit of fencing. The law is quite plain. The second man is not bound to pay for his share of that fence. It is undertaken to fence in the other side of his farm. The fence he puts up may be only two wires, slung on posts (twenty or thirty feet apart), but all the same he must pay his fair share of the value of the older fence. If he cannot agree with the owner about its value the law provides for a valuation on sound business terms, and the new man must say up. Here is the law on the point: "When any land which has lain unenclosed and in common is afterwards enclosed, the proprietor of the adjacent land when improved, occupied or enclosed, shall pay to the owner of the division or line fence standing upon the division line between such land and the enclosure of any other occupant or proprietor a just portion of the value of the division line fence."

Let me say something about a two wire fence. If grain is sown up to within a yard of it such a fence is useless. But if three yards of ground intervene between the wires and the crop that crop will be perfectly safe from harm. I have had the entire perimeter of horses and cattle ranging around miles of two wire fence and never saw any of them inside. Place one wire six or eight inches from the ground and the next three feet high and keep the crop clear of temptation and the fence, though not a "lawful fence," will do all that is wanted.

A portion of the ROWLAND ESTATE, otherwise known as "THE SYNDICATE."

Plans and Prices can be seen at the Office on and after the date mentioned.

This is the closest and best property available, and the choicest in and about Edmonton. The furthest part is from 10 to 15 minutes from the post office. The property is eminently the people's portion: is not controlled by a policy of inertia dictated by "Hebraic Hatred." The surveys conform to existing ones, and the streets will be projected to their legitimate confines. Building Sites on the verge of the hill overlooking the mighty Saskatchewan, the foliage and verdure of whose banks is not exceeded by the fiercest tropics or softest Pacific scenes, abound. Prices will be uniform and moderate, tempered as a corrective of the present indefinite craze.

TERMS.—One third Cash. Balance 6 and 12 months, interest 8 per cent. Agreements $2 each, transfers free.

MATHER'S ART GALLERY

Off the operating room is a dark room for the storing and changing of plates. Two nicely fitted dressing rooms adjoin the operating room and a third dressing room opens off the waiting room. The printing room is on the second floor and at the front. In this room the printing of all the views, portraits, etc., is done. Off the waiting room are the two work rooms, one where the retouching, mounting, and spotting is done and the other for toning and washing the pictures. Off these again is the dark room, used for developing the plates. Still another room is used for the storing of working material, such as plates, mounts, etc. A large supply of these is always kept on hand.

Mr. Mathers has two assistants, Mr. Smith, late of Hamilton, Ontario, attends to the retouching and assists in the operating room. Miss Asher, who has been in Mr. Mathers' employ for about three years, has complete charge of the printing.

Edmonton may well congratulate itself on having an art gallery such as Mr. Mathers'. It has already done much to perpetuate the scenic attractions of the Edmonton district and of the great far north, and in years to come, when our land will be the home of millions, these views of the early days will have an added attraction.
